Check out this site, I love their poster! Thanks, Dennis!

On 22 Jun, Dennis wrote:
> Greetings Nic,
>
> I thought you'd be interested. Should be "a bit of a row" in the old > homeland come the weekend.
>
> http://irishantiwar.org/index.adp
>
> YeeHa!
>
> Enjoy,
> Dennis

A short cut to the poster:
http://irishantiwar.org/images/mid_section_content/colstopbusha4.pdf
#-#
Also, a fine Op-Ed piece by Michael Newdow from yesterday's Times "Pledging Allegiance to My Daughter":
http://www.nytimes.com/2004/06/21/opinion/21NEWD.html?pagewanted=print&position=

#-#
Bill Clinton lets loose on the British media (and media in general):
http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/americas/3829799.stm
Here's a snippet:
Look, you made a decision to allocate your time in a certain way, you should take responsibility for that, you should say 'yes, I care much more about this than whether the Bosnian people were saved, and whether he brought a million home from Kosovo'.
#-#
And while I was hesitant to add this to my rant-mail, the Senate race in Illinois is just too important this year. Barack Obama is just about the best thing to happen to the Democratic party in a long time, and seeing Jack Ryan, his opponent for the US Senate seat being vacated by Republican Peter Fitzgerald, get knocked on his keister at this point in the campaign, is just too good to pass up.
"Ryan file a bombshell Ex-wife alleges GOP candidate took her to sex clubs" clucks the Chicago Tribune:
http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/local/chi-0406220247jun22,1,7688140.story?coll=chi-news-hed
"Ex-wife says Ryan pushed sex clubs" crows the Sun Times:
http://www.suntimes.com/output/news/cst-nws-ryan22.html
#-#
And, as a perfect counterweight to the Irish Stop Bush poster, we have this site:
http://www.cafeshops.com/stopnadernow/
Get your gear now!