 "A lot of people want to see it shaved," says Trump of hair
Irrelevance is a theme in FortuneLand of late. Pawn sees no point in even bothering to document the latest imbroglios and revelations coming out of the Bush administration, so his attention has drifted to irrelevant celebrities. In his latest act of radical irrelevance, Donald Trump has made a bet with another vastly irrelevant chap, World Wrestling Entertainment owner Vince McMahon. Whomever loses must lose their locks as well. Couldn't happen to two less relevant guys, or two worse heads of hair.
